ANNOUNCE SYMPHONY CONCERT PROGRAM

To Play Selections From Wagner and Beethoven

MUSICAL TREAT ASSURED

Program Also Includes Franck And Svendsen

On Wednesday evening, December 14, the Boston Symphony Orchestra will present the following program in Mead Memorial Chapel.

1. Symphony in D Minor — Cesar Franck
2. Carnival in Paris — Svendsen
3. Overture and Fifth number of Ballet music from Prometheus — Beethoven
4. Overture, Tannhauser — Wagner

Cesar Franck was born in Liege, Belgium, in 1822, and died in Paris in 1890. He was known to his contemporaries, not as a composer, but as a teacher and organist at Saint Clothilde. His was a quietist spirit which looked rather within than without, which measured life in terms of contemplation rather than of action. The battle of life went on all around him, men were struggling and fighting and loving and hating, but Franck knew none of these passions save one, which in him destroyed all the others and that one was love. Under the spell of his personality we pass from the noonday glare of the intellect in which objects stand forth sharp and hard, into the soft cathedral twilight of religious emotion, and, putting aside our ordinary thoughts we commune for a time with deeper intuitions. Franck is, in company with his countryman, Maeterlinck, a mystic.

His music is to an unusual degree the expression of himself, full of his peculiar contemplative emotion. The harmonic background is rich, sober, vague, like the prevailing mood of a religious devotee, and from it constantly emerges phrases of the most poignant aspiration, voicing those intense, yet elusive feelings which irradiate none but introspective minds. One feels always in Franck's music the tragedy of the finite and the infinite. Those groping, shifting harmonies, above which the pathetic fragments of melody sound for a moment somehow irresistibly suggest the great unknown universe in which little men's lives are acted. All is vague except the momentary feature, and that presses on towards a fulfillment that perpetually eludes it. Spiritual unrest is the characteristic quality of this music, the unrest of a spirit pure and ardent but forever unsatisfied.

And it is exactly in this mingled vagueness and poignancy that we discover the proper artistic expression of mysticism, for mysticism is one of the ways of solving, or perhaps we should say ignoring, that primal and protean mystery of human life, the conflict between real needs and ideal facts. Franck always avoids the obvious and gropes towards some unattainable means of expression. So great is his distrust of the understood, the accepted, the real and intelligible, that he is always roaming afield after some unknown and untamed beauty.

It is this utter disdain of the commonplace which influences all Franck's harmonic and metrical precepts, and which lends such an atmosphere of the

VERMONT RHODES SCHOLARSHIP GOES TO M'DDLEBURY; GOLLNICK '22 CHOSEN

'Varsity Football Captain Is Picked for Graduate Work at Oxford

NINE VERMONT APPLICANTS

Gollnick Prominent in Student Activities—President of Undergrad. Ass'n

Continued applause greeted the announcement in Chapel Monday morning that Albert F. Gollnick '22 had received appointment as Rhodes Scholar from Vermont to Oxford University. The scholarship amounts to $1750 annually and continues for three years. Gollnick will take up residence at Oxford in October next year and will pursue a course in natural science.

There were nine candidates who appeared before the state committee in the final conference before the award was made. Of these three were from the University of Vermont, two from Norwich University, two from Middlebury and one each from Dartmouth and Haverford.

First American Appointment In 1904

In his will Rhodes founded scholarships in the United Kingdom, America and Germany. The first American appointed was in 1904. Cecil Rhodes was not content with providing simply for scholarships, but he also made provision as to the conditions upon which all scholarships would be awarded.

"My desire being that the students who shall be elected to the scholarships shall not be merely bookworms" he said, "I direct that in the election of a student to a scholarship regard shall be had to his literary and scholastic attainments; his fondness for and success in manly outdoor sports such as cricket, football and the like; his qualities of manhood, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for and protection of the weak, kindliness, unselfishness and fellowship; and his exhibition during school days of moral force and character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates, for one of those latter attributes will be likely in after life to esteem the performance of public duties as his highest aim."

Gollnick in Varied Activities

Gollnick is one of the best-known and best liked men at Middlebury and his success has occasioned great enthusiasm among both faculty and students. He matriculated in 1918 from the South Division High School, Milwaukee, Wis., and has been a leader in sports and activities since his entrance. He has been a member of the varsity teams in track and tennis every year and has won his letter in football three times, being unable to play in his freshman year because of illness. He was captain of this season's football 'varsity and the Rutland Herald's choice for All-Vermont fullback.

In track he has been prominent at broad jumping and with the discus. In addition to playing on the tennis varsity he acted as manager of the sport last season. In the Glee Club, Mandolin Club and College Choir he has always been prominent, being a member of all three each year, a member of the double quartette in the Glee Club his second year and last year he

NORWICH TOSSERS COMING SATURDAY

'Varsity Five to Open Basketball Season With Cadets in McCullough Gymnasium

Middlebury's 'varsity basketball team will begin the local season Saturday evening in the McCullough Gymnasium with a game against the Norwich University five. The latter aggregation is composed of several of last year's stars and others of interscholastic fame. Present indications are that the contest will be very fast and that clever shots from the floor will feature the game.

Coach Brown has been working with his squad for the last two weeks building up a strong team. With five of last year's 'varsity squad and a host of good material in the freshman class, he has rounded up a fast and formidable aggregation.

Leonard in Fine Form

Captain "Chuck" Leonard is the leading man from last year's quintet. For the past two seasons he has been holding down a forward position in fine style. Hardy, who worked the famous forward combination with Leonard last season, will probably start in that position in the opening game. Hardy starred in his prep-school days on the Springfield, Mass., high school team as well as on the Y. M. C. A. quintet.

Timberman has shown up very well at center and will likely fill that position when the two teams line up Saturday. Working as a substitute last season Timberman made a fine record. The guard positions will be made up of Lacey, 'varsity guard last year and Sikorski who takes the place vacated by Heath, captain of last season's five. Both have worked well together in their respective positions in practice.

Freshman Material Strong

Among the freshmen, Rich is making the strongest bid for a position on the team, while it is a close battle among the other new men for the remaining substitute positions. Lanpher, Williams, Ryan, Long, Anderson, Gorham, Edwards, and McClellan lead the field in the opinion of Coach Brown and some of them will probably make the trip to Dartmouth, Trinity and Harvard with the 'varsity.

VOL. XVIII Dec. 7, 1921 NO. 11

A Middlebury Man

Middlebury College is proud of Albert F. Gollnick '22 whose appointment as Rhodes' Scholar was announced Monday—proud of him in his own personal achievement and proud of the honor which he has brought to his Alma Mater. We are glad to see his name added to the list of Middlebury men, H. H. Holt '05, J. M. D. Olnstead '07, W. C. Bosworth '11 and T. K. Penniman '15, who preceding him, have won the coveted distinction of what is undoubtedly the most famous scholarship in the world.

The selection by the committee in charge was a wise choice and one that has the approval of all who know the man they honor. The Vermont winner this year is a man who represents the highest type of college student and a worthy ideal for Middlebury generations. He not only has a scholastic record which is of the highest but he is also a man of many and varied interests. His record on the football field is no less enviable than are his academic achievements, and included in his athletic accomplishments, no less creditable is his prowess in the field of track sports and tennis. The combination of these two spheres of endeavor, study and sport, is ordinarily a justified limit to undergraduate ability but Gollnick has done more. He has been a member of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs and, honored by election as president of the Undergraduate Association, the highest office which the college can confer upon one of its student members, he has conducted his duties in a manner highly commendable. Truly, here is a man whom any college would be proud to include in the roll of its sons.

If one were asked to explain Gollnick's success the answer would probably be found in his great enthusiasm and unflinching application. He never meets a task half-way. It is as though he were guided ever by the words of the late President Roosevelt who said, "In life, as in a football game, the principle is to hit the line hard." Gollnick has done just that; he has played the game with all his soul and all his strength. Middlebury is happy in his success and congratulates him upon his achievement.

Don't Slump!

Just at this time of year when the Christmas vacation is approaching and the holiday spirit begins to be felt, there is apt to be a general indisposition to get down to any real, honest work. Yet this is the time of all times when it is most necessary to apply diligent effort. Mid-semester examinations are less than two months away. Any noticeable slump in the work for the remainder of the semester is bound to bring about disastrous results. After the holidays the approach of examinations makes any extended opportunity for redeeming poor work unlikely.

Education is after all the primary purpose for being in college. All other interests, no matter how important, are really side issues and should not detract from the main purpose. It is often very difficult, amid the pressure of outside affairs, to do full justice to academic work—yet in neglecting it we are defeating the purpose for which we are here and for which the college was founded.

Don't be demoralized by the thought of vacation! Don't sit back and reflect upon the physical impossibility of further exertion! Don't slump!

SET DATE FOR ANNUAL McGILL SKI CARNIVAL

The date for the annual Ski Meet at Montreal has been set for February 25, according to an announcement of the McGill Ski Club. It is hoped that Middlebury will be able to send an Outing Club team to Canada as in previous years. Among the colleges usually represented in the classic are McGill, Dartmouth, Middlebury, Williams and Vermont.

Facilities for practice at Montreal have been greatly improved by the erection of a new ski jump at the Stadium. McGill undergraduates have expressed considerable enthusiasm over these inovations for it will no longer necessitate going to Mount Royal for practice.

Shepardson Heads Apollo Club

Rowland R. Shepardson '23 was elected president of the Apollo Club at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. The other officers elected were Alice E. Ladd '22, vice president; and Esther M. Langwell '23 secretary.

NOTICE

Arrangements have been made with the Rutland Railroad for attaching extra coaches to the midday trains on Thursday, December 15. All who are intending to leave for the Christmas vacation on these trains should inform the Deans' Offices at once whether they will take the north or south bound trains. It is important that all, who intend to take the 12:00 or 12:46 trains, leave this information at the Deans' Offices as otherwise sufficient accommodations will not be provided for all.

STUDENT GOV'T DELEGATES REPORT

Misses Billings and Stilphen Tell of Interesting College Women's Conference at Simmons

Margaret I. Billings '22 and Barbara Stilphen '23, delegates to the Fourteenth Annual Conference of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government held November 17, 18, 19 at Simmons College, Boston, Mass., have returned with an encouraging report as to the relative merits of the Student Government system in force at Middlebury and in other colleges. Many ideas were gained whereby the Student Government of Middlebury may be benefited, but it was also felt that the local organization, though not perfect, has a standard equalling that of most colleges and excelling many of them.

The conference opened with a meeting held Thursday afternoon at which some of the larger Student Government problems were discussed, the honor and cut system being taken up at great length. That evening Oscar Wildes' "The Importance of Being Earnest" was presented by the Simmons College Dramatic Association. Friday morning was given over to small discussion groups, the Middlebury delegates attending the one which considered coeducational and small-town college problems. In the afternoon a picture of the delegates was taken, followed by a Bus Line tour of Boston. Some of the points of interest visited were the Charleston Navy yard and "Old Ironsides", Harvard University Museum, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Old North Church, homes of Paul Revere, Henry W. Longfellow, Oliver Wendall Holmes and many others. Friday evening, at an open meeting, Miss Hopkinson addressed the delegation on "Women's Interest in Current Affairs of the Day".

The final meeting was held Saturday morning. It was decided after invitations were read from various colleges, among them Oberlin, U. V. M., and Randolph Macon, that the next conference be held at the last-named college. The delegates also passed on the resolution drawn up by the Men's and Women's Eastern Student Conference at Silver Bay in July 1921, taking a decided stand against any use of intoxicants at college social affairs and urging all college men and women to create a wholesome public opinion on this problem.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF WAITE HOYT EX-'22

Waite Hoyt ex-'22, star pitcher of the New York Yankees in the World's Series, is to be married in February to Miss Dorothy Pyle of Brooklyn. The engagement was announced privately a few weeks ago. Hoyt is now at Hartford, Conn., where he opened a vaudeville engagement, doing a song and dance act.

Hoyt entered Middlebury in the fall of 1918 and was a sargeant in Company B of the S. A. T. C. He played football on the 'varsity that year but did not return to college and has since made quite an enviable reputation in big league baseball, both with the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees. His performance in the World Series was classic and put him up near the top in the ranking of pitchers. He is a member of Chi Psi Fraternity.

Sage Dance Saturday

The Waubanakees, Delta Taus and this year's football letter men were the guests of the Sages at an informal dance given Saturday evening in McCullough gymnasium. FIRST HOCKEY PRACTICE HELD MONDAY AFTERNOON

First hockey practice was held Monday afternoon on Porter pond, about twenty candidates reporting. Plans are under way for the organization of a 'varsity team and for an interfraternity hockey league. Letters have been sent to about a dozen New England colleges and prep schools in an effort to secure dates for several games.

Among the candidates who reported at the first practice were Fitzpatrick, M. Ross and Brautigam '22, Ashley and D. Ross '23, Force, Fletcher and Wilson '24 and Leary, Gonsales and Drost '25. In a scrub game M. Ross and Ashley received minor injuries.

As soon as the weather is colder the high board hockey rink will be erected on the pond.

Y. W. C. A. DEBATES DISARMAMENT SUBJECT

The meeting of the Y. W. C. A. last Thursday was conducted in the form of a debate on disarmament. Resolved: that the United States shall have total disarmament immediately. LOWER CLASSES TO DEBATE 18TH AMEND

Sophomores and Frosh to Meet in Battle of Words Tuesday Evening

For the first time in many years an organized battle of words between the two lower classes will be staged. The debate will be held in the Old Chapel next Tuesday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

Klimm '24 will captain the sophomore team aided by Austin and Parry, while DeGroff will lead the first year men. The other members of the freshman team have not been selected.

The question to be debated will be: Resolved, that the eighteenth amendment and all legislation enacted in conformity thereto be repealed and the enforcement of prohibition left in the hands of the several states. By mutual agreement both sides have waived all questions as to the difficulty of repealing the eighteenth amendment as well as the relative merits of temperance and drunkenness. The debate will be conducted by officials of the Wetherell Club.

MIDDLEBURY REPRESENTED AT HARTFORD CONVENTION

At the fall conference of the Connecticut Valley Inter-Collegiate Missionary Union, a union of the Student Volunteers of all colleges in the Connecticut Valley, held in Hartford, Conn., last Friday and Saturday, Marion Crathern and Pearl Blackburn represented Middlebury College. The meeting was a forerunner of the spring conference, and dealt chiefly with the business of the organization and a discussion of future plans to be carried out by the different branches.

The organization was established in 1886 and deals chiefly with world evangelization and study of international problems, with the view of preparing its members for foreign missionary service.

MEET TO ORGANIZE AN ENGLISH CLUB

Discuss Plans For Publication of a Literary Magazine—Corsen Elected President

Plans for the formation of an English Club and for the establishment of a literary magazine, both of which have been in an embryo stage for some time, reached their fulfillment last Thursday evening when about twenty-five students from both colleges met in the Music Hall on Storrs Avenue, organized and began their work. The idea of an English Club was first conceived by the three professors of the English Department last year and since then plans have been carefully drawn up which, judging from the interest exhibited at the first meeting, augur well for the future of the organization. Chester R. Corsen '22 was elected president of the new Club, while Miss Gladys R. Thompson '23 was chosen vice-president and Roger T. Hall '22 was selected for the office of secretary-treasurer.

While the Club will be semi-social in nature, Professor Cady, who presided during the evening and explained the general purpose of the club, stated that the main purpose of the organization will be to foster interest in things literary. It is intended to devote the meetings, which will be held monthly, to discussions and lectures on various literary topics such as the modern novel, individual poems, the art of writing and like subjects of interest. In order that the meetings might be conducted along definite plans, a program committee, consisting of Miss Axton '23 chairman, Kalin '23 and Miss Dole '23, was appointed.

Discuss Literary Magazine

What was probably the most important proposal of the evening, and the one which promises to have the most far-reaching results, was the inauguration of plans for the publication of a literary magazine, which it is designed to issue as a part of the Club's activity. A canvass of both men and women students of the college has already been made, with very gratifying results so far as interest on the part of the students is concerned.

Various suggestions regarding the organization and policy of the magazine were proposed; and the question of financing the project was discussed, without however any definite solution being reached. In order that further information on the interest of students in the movement may be secured and that more definite plans for the publication may be made, a committee composed of Corsen '24 chairman, Miss Thompson '23, Eddy '23, and Professor Cady was appointed.

This action on the part of the English Club following as it does the editorial appeal in last week's Campus for an organ devoted to literary interests such as are impossible for the Campus alone to promote, it is hoped will secure the support of the student body as well as the alumni.

While the two projects are separate, the English Club will have a certain degree of supervision over the work of the proposed literary magazine, as well as the managing of it. Membership in the English Club is restricted to those students majoring or minoring in English and receiving a minimum average of eighty-five per cent in four courses of the department. Membership on the staff of the magazine will be without restriction and open to every one interested.

DR. SWAIN SPEAKS AT VESPERS SUNDAY

Pleads for Obedience to Will of God—Lecturing in Congregational Church This Week

Dr. Richard La Rue Swain, of Bridgeport, Conn., a former Congregational pastor, was the vespers preacher at Chapel Sunday. He delivered a most forceful and interesting sermon, taking as his text, John 2:4, "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it." His whole sermon is best summed up in the single sentence with which he opened and closed, "Listen to God; obey Him promptly, cheerfully, without fear; and you will see the glory of His kingdom and feel the sweetness of His presence."

Dr. Swain said that it is true, we do not always know what God desires us to do, but if we do His will the ninety-nine times out of a hundred that we do know, we will best know what He wants that hundredth time. For this a morbid course of introspection is unnecessary, even unwholesome.

It is only by following these dictates of obedience that one can see the glory of God's kingdom begin in one's own heart, for then one really begins to live when all the powers of the body—emotion, thought, a sense of right and wrong—begin to be organized. Any religion that does not pull all these powers into harmony, is not the Christian religion.

Dr. Swain will remain in Middlebury this week to give a series of lectures in the Congregational church. They will begin at 7:30 each evening. Following each lecture, there will be an opportunity for asking any questions regarding the religious life and faith. The topics which remain to be discussed and the nights for their consideration are as follows:

Tonight—" Does God Have a Body and Could He Become a Man?" Thursday—"Losing the Bible to Find It." Friday—"Losing and Finding a Sense of Immortality."

FRATERNITY TO HOLD EDITORIAL CONTEST

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 6—(Special)—In order to arouse the active support of every male undergraduate in the United States and Canada to Liberal Arts courses, and to refute the popular claim that a four-year cultural course is time mis-spent, Pi Delta Epsilon, Honorary Collegiate Journalism Fraternity, has announced as the subject for its 1921-22 Intercollegiate Editorial Contest, "The Practical Value of a Cultural Education".

President Warren G. Harding, a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, and former editor and present owner of the Marion (Ohio) "Star", will represent the fraternity in the presentation of awards. Three prominent metropolitan newspaper editors will act as final judges.

This year, Pi Delta Epsilon's contest will be double in scope. A local contest will be conducted at every college and university, and each local first prize winner will receive the Certificate of Merit of the fraternity, and will be eligible to submit his editorial in the national contest. Three prize winners in the national contest will receive the Pi Delta Epsilon medals. The contest opened December 3 and will close February 15, 1922.

BEETHOVEN, WAGNER, FRANCK, AND SVENDSEN ON PROGRAM FOR BOSTON SYMPHONY CONCERT

unexpected to his music. His rhythm is lacking in vigor of pulse, and his phrasing, like Grieg's, is primitive, displaying inability to build up wide and complex forms. His technique Franck absorbed chiefly from Bach, and though he has little of the older master's pulsing vivacity, yet he is acclaimed the most inspired of modern composers. The Symphony in D Minor is the most masterly work of the modern French school and, beginning in the darkness of doubt, it rises with impressive melodic eloquence to an uplifting climax of exalted radiance.

The "Carnival at Paris" of Svendsen is a work of the highest brilliance. The composer was born in Christiana, Norway, in 1844, the son of a military bandmaster. He studied for the violin but was compelled to give up his projected career because of a paralyzed arm. Going to Bayreuth he met Wagner, with whom he became intimately acquainted and developed an intense interest in orchestral conducting. Svendsen held many noteworthy posts in this capacity. His music is of a very high character and is as remarkable for the absence of any exclusively national or Scandinavian distinctions as for its elaborate finish. His harmony is always strictly according to the traditions of the old masters despite the fact that Svendsen was one of the most cosmopolitan composers of his age. He believed that the difference between Norse and German music lay in the title.

The Prometheus music was written during the first period of Beethoven's development, and is characterized by a delicate, yet firm loveliness. The Overture opens with an adagio, followed by a solo on the oboe, which leads directly to an allegro on the strings, after which the second subject is taken by the woodwinds. There is a stirring coda. During the course of the performance of the Ballet music the following virtuosos will be heard on their respective instruments. Mr. Beddetti, violoncello; Mr. Laurent, flute; Mr. Sand, clarinet; and Mr. Haly, harp. The following extract is from the Boston Herald of Tuesday, November 29, regarding the recent performance of the work in Symphony Hall. "The applause was spontaneous and great and prolonged until all the solo performers were forced to rise and acknowledge the tribute. Beethoven made the 'hit' of the evening."

The opera Tannhauser represents a pivotal period in Wagner's musical life. His ideas, which later proved so revolutionary, were formulated and definitely in mind at this time, but evidently the composer believed that the time was not ripe for his theories, for Tannhauser is written according to well established conventions. The first performance of the opera took place on November 2nd, 1842 in Dresden, and met with but moderate success.

The story of the opera, of which the overture is a miniature in music, is of Tannhauser, a knight who succumbs to the temptations of Venusberg only to be redeemed by the pure love and steadfast faith of his betrothed Elizabeth. The overture which represents the contest between Christianity and heathenism, is built up entirely on the two following motives, which continually recur, in various guises.

In the first place appears the Pilgrim's Chorus representing the religious element; it is first presented with an impressive gravity, and then is majestically developed in a persistent figure on the violins and it dies away as it departs. Without transition the motive of Venusberg transports us to the abode of luxury and unholy pleasures. A little farther on, the hymn to Venus bursts out like a trumpet call, first in B Major, then after some beautiful symphonic developments in the principal key in E Major, a long pedal on the dominant brings back the Pilgrim's Chorus which is soon accompanied by the strident passage on the violins, and the Overture ends with a great and brilliant finale.
